THE DREAM OF EUGENE AHAM. OT THOMAS HOSS. Types in the prime of surinker time,
An evening tall and cool,
And four-and wanty happy boys
Came bounding out of school:
There were some that ran and some that leapt
Like troutlets in a pool.

Away they aped with gamesame minds,
And souls untouched by sing,
To a lerel mead they came, and there
They drave the wickets in:
Pleasantly should the acting sun
Over the tares of Lyon. Like sportise deer they cours'd about,
And shouted as they ran,—
Turning to mirth all things of certh,
As only boylood can,
But the Ushingsat remote from all,
A metabololy man.

Highat was off bla.

A meanwood said.

High at was off his vest spart,

To catch Heaven's themsed breeze,

For a hurning though was in his hrow,

And his booom illar ease;

So he i-an'd his head on his hands, and read
The book between his knees. The book between his knees.
Lexi siter leaf, he turn'd it o'er.
Nor ever gline'd haid;
In the goldes eventide.
Much sudy had made him very lean,
And pale, and leaden ey'd.

And pare, and reagens tome,
With a fast and sevent grasp
He strain'd the dusky covers close,
And fix'd the brizen hasp;
O Obl, could I so close my mind,
And slasp it with the clasp?

Then lesping on his feet upright, some moody turns he took,—
New up the mead, then down the mead,
And past a shady nook,—
And lol be saw a lattle boy,
That pored upon a beak. "My gentle lad, what is tyou read-komanos or fairy fable? Or is it some historic page, Of Kings and crowns unstable? The young boy gave an upward glance,— "It is 'The Deals of Abel."

The Usher took six hearty strides,
As smit with sudden pain,
Six hearty strides beyond the place,
Then slowly back again;
And down he sat heade the led,
And talked with him of Onio.

And leng since them; of blendy roes, Whose deeds tradition saves, of lipely folk cut off uneces, and hid is sudden graves. Of horrid stabs, in groves Torlors, And muniters done in caves, And how the spirits of injurid men
